Sir:

Two compact discs and one floppy disk accompany this paper. The floppy disk (labeled "computer readable form") contains the computer readable form of the sequence listing. The CD-ROMs are filed in lieu of a paper copy of the formal sequence listing. Each of the two discs (labeled "copy 1" and "copy 2," respectively) contains one 4.14 MB ASCII file labeled "002441.00187 sequence listing.txt," which was created Wednesday, January 18, 2006. The machine format of the compact discs and the floppy disk is MS-Windows.

IAP20 REGISTRATION TO 19 JAN 2006

I believe the contents of two compact discs and the floppy disk are identical. The sequence listing contains only the sequences disclosed in the application and therefore contains no new matter.

Respectfully submitted,

Date: January 19, 2006
